

Security Certificate Access Problems

As part of the enterprise-wide domain change we have changed our web address to www.alamo.edu. Some websites may experience security certificate access problems because the certificate was issued for our previous website's address. New certificates will be applied. However, should you receive a security certificate warning, please follow the steps below.

To access the website, select “Continue to this website (not recommended)” at the security certificate pop-up.

Note: The Security Certificate message (above) may look different on other browsers. Please follow the same basic steps to access the website.

If you need further assistance, please contact Support Central at 485-0555 (Option 4). Thank You.
